

FEAR THE RAGE
OF THE PEOPLE

So Mexican Federal Officials
Try to Keep Them Unaware of Torreon's Fall

OBSTINATELY DENY
CAPTURE OF THE CITY

Rebels Now Control Practically One-Half of the Mexican Republic

Mexico City, April 4.—The federal government still obstinately denied to-day the capture of Torreon by the rebels. It is assumed, however, in many quarters that Huerta and his ministers are not in ignorance of the fate of that city.

The taking of Torreon gives the constitutionalists control of practically one-half of the republic. Military men here regard the retreat of General Velasco from Torreon as a dangerous undertaking. So far as known here, the federalists still have control of the railroad between Torreon and Saltillo.

It is suggested that the reason for withholding the news of the fall of Torreon from the public is based on psychological rather than military grounds. It is pointed out by serious-minded people here that the temperance of the Mexican populace is such that the news of a disaster like the fall of Torreon might easily start an avalanche of public opinion against the administration, which would thus find itself seriously embarrassed at a critical moment.

Secret Session of Congress Held.
A short session of Congress was held last night, and while no intimation as to its deliberations was given out, it is believed that the situation caused by the fall of Torreon was the subject under discussion.

CARRANZA WELL PLEASED.
Rebel Head Talks Freely of the Significance of Torreon's Capture.

Juarez, Mexico, April 4.—General Carranza talked freely as to the significance of the capture of Torreon, saying:

"It is of the greatest importance, because it sets us free to concentrate the major portion of our forces around the more central cities of the republic still held by Huerta, with the knowledge that he no longer has a northern army worthy the name."

"Of course, I cannot disclose our future military plans, as Huerta, although he has not proven himself a good soldier, would surely take advantage of the information."

"As for the recognition of our government by the United States, I have nothing to say because that does not depend on me. I expect to remain in Juarez several days longer, after which I will establish my headquarters in Chihuahua. We have not definitely decided, but I expect to meet General Villa in that city."

"With the capture of Torreon, we have communication by rail all the way to Durango and the outskirts of Zacatecas, which is in the very heart of the republic, we also have wire communication as far south as the territory of Tepic, and I receive daily reports from our advance guards in the vicinity of San Luis Potosi. On the east, I am in within a few miles of Tampico and near Saltillo and Monterrey."

Asked when a report on the Benton case might be expected, Carranza said that the commission appointed to investigate had not finished its labors.

"The inquiry was postponed because it was necessary that Dr. Lara, one of the commission's surgeons, should be at Chihuahua to assist in caring for the wounded," he said.

"Some work has been going forward, however, for we are going into every detail of Benton's life."

Carranza Congratulated.
General Carranza received congratulations from all parts of the United States and Europe. His message to General Villa follows:

"I have received the message in which you communicate to me the capture of Torreon, from where the remnant of the defeated federal garrison left under cover of darkness."

"I heartily congratulate you and your officers and soldiers for your persistent courage in the eleven days of battle which brought as this result the capture of this great federal stronghold. I lament deeply the loss of so many of our valiant comrades."

"This brilliant triumph brings nearer the definite accomplishment of our cause, with which we shall erase the stain that an army of traitors and assassins has cast upon the honor of our country."

FACES TWO CHARGES.
Carrying Revolver and Knife and Obtaining Money by Forged Letter.

Albany, N. Y., April 4.—Josephine El Doro, the 20-year-old girl arrested in an Albany cafe earlier in the day with a man's clothes under her own, last night faced two charges. The police said that when arrested the woman wore a revolver and a knife in her belt in violation of the Sullivan law. They also declared she had obtained $284 from a local bank through a forged letter.

According to the police Miss El Doro presented a letter, supposed to have been written by her aunt, Miss Susan E. Teator, and a bankbook to an Albany bank. The letter authorized Miss El Doro to draw on her aunt's account. The teller thereupon gave the young woman $284. Miss Teator, who is understood to be an inmate of the state hospital at Poughkeepsie, denied writing the letter.

TWO SPECTATORS OF FIST FIGHT DIE

Elderly Residents of Spencer, Mass., Collapsed Under Stress of the Excitement.

Spencer, Mass., April 4.—Two elderly residents died yesterday from the effects of excitement and fright at seeing a fist fight among three men who were strangers to them. The two were Patrick Eagleston, 70 years old, of Dugan street, and Mrs. Denis Arsenault, 60 years old, of 48 Maple street.

Mr. Eagleston and Mrs. Arsenault were in a street car waiting room in the center of the town waiting for a car for Worcester. The car stopped in front and as it did so two men alighted, went into the waiting room and at once became involved in a quarrel with two men they found there. One of the men who had come on the car was soon fighting hard with the two in the waiting room.

Eagleston ran out of the room and collapsed on the sidewalk. Bystanders took him to his home, which was near, and he died within a few minutes. Hardly had Eagleston left when Mrs. Arsenault sank to the floor, and before a physician could be summoned she, too, had died.

The fight that caused the death of the man and woman was between Martin Niederberger, a chauffeur employed by Walter Watson of Leicester, and Stanley Orutt and Charles Bannon, who have been distributing samples of a cereal in the cities and towns of this section. Watson and Niederberger had come on the car from Leicester to charge the strangers with having insulted Mrs. Watson at her home in the morning.

Niederberger made the accusation and, it is alleged, Orutt at once struck him and sent him to the floor of the waiting room. Then came the general mix-up and the collapse of Eagleston and Mrs. Arsenault.

Deputy Sheriff George H. Ramer and Constable John M. Norton soon arrested Niederberger, Orutt and Bannon. Niederberger was charged with disturbing the peace and the two other men with assault and battery on Niederberger.

All were admitted to bail for their appearance in East Brookfield district court.

AMERICAN TEACHER IS EXONERATED

Was Under Arrest in Connection With Death of Rev. Charles H. Holbrook of Lynn, Mass., a Missionary in Asia Minor.

Constantinople, April 4.—Nishan Avdighian, an American teacher at the mission at Sivas, Asia Minor, Turkey, who had been under arrest in connection with the murder last August of Reverend Charles H. Holbrook of Lynn, Mass., a missionary, was released to-day, having established his innocence. Four others are awaiting trial.

The official version of the trial showed that Doctor Holbrook was killed while sleeping in a garden surrounding the house of an Armenian who had aroused the hatred of the Turks. Two Turks shot the missionary in mistake for the owner of the house.

KILLS WOMAN AND CHILDREN.

Arkansas Slayer Uses Axe and Sets House Afire.

Little Rock, Ark., April 4.—An early yesterday morning Mrs. Elmer Francis and her three children in their home near Fendley, Clark county, having previously set fire to the house, according to reports received here yesterday, Mr. Francis, her husband and a fourth child narrowly escaped the same fate as that of the other members of the family.

According to statements made by Francis, he was awakened early by the barking of his dog to find his house in flames. About this time, Francis said, he saw the assassin enter his wife's room, carrying an axe. Believing the intruder was searching for him, Francis said, he ran into the yard in an effort to draw the man away from the house, but the slayer remained and killed Mrs. Francis and the three children, who ranged in age from two to six years.

Francis said he then ran to the house and the assassin disappeared. The flames by this time had completely enveloped the house and he was unable to enter the room where lay the bodies of his wife and children. He succeeded, however, in rescuing the one-year-old baby from another room.

Francis Is Arrested.
Arkadelphia, Ark., April 4.—Elihu Francis, a farmer, was taken into custody late yesterday and will be held pending an investigation of the killing of his wife and three children, whose skulls were crushed, presumably with an axe and whose bodies burned in a fire that destroyed the buildings on the Francis farm near Arkadelphia early yesterday.

CAPTURED BY POSSE OF FARMERS

Joe Pearson, Accused of Larceny of $50.

Dexter, Me., April 4.—A young man who gives his name as Joe Pearson, was taken into custody yesterday afternoon by a posse of farmers after he had taken a pocketbook containing $50 from the farmhouse of Mrs. Preston Knowles in the town of Corinna. It is alleged.

He was brought to this town by Deputy Sheriff McKenney and locked up, pending a hearing in the municipal court, when he will be charged with larceny. He was employed on the Knowles farm, having been hired by Mr. Knowles, whose death occurred a few days ago. He is alleged to have stolen the wallet yesterday morning. Neighboring farmers were notified and after a search in the woods they captured him. The wallet, containing $40, was found on his person.

Pearson says his home is in Montreal. He admitted the theft of the money, it is said.

PRINTER LEFT MUCH MONEY.

Frank Wood of Ashmont, Mass., Gave $144,000 in Public Bequests.

Boston, April 4.—Frank Wood, a printer, who lived in Ashmont, in a will containing public bequests aggregating $144,000, filed in the probate office yesterday, creates a trust fund for the purpose of considering the practicability of establishing a home for needy and indigent convalescents and a home for incurables on land devised with that intention.

The fund consists of $50,000, and with it is included 40 acres of land on Morton street. Lillian Neale Wood, his widow, and Robert F. Herriek of Milton are named as trustees. If they deem it impracticable within three years to carry out the trust they are directed to divide the land and money among such beneficiaries and in such amounts as they deem advisable. If they establish the home for incurables, or both, then the residuary estate goes to such institution or institutions.

The testator explained in his will that it was his desire to found such institution in his lifetime.

The residence, which contained 125 rooms, said to be the largest house on Long Island, was under lease by Jason Waters, a Wall street broker.

The fire was caused by the explosion of a steam boiler in the cellar. Mrs. Waters and the servants in the house when the fire broke out escaped unhurt.

RUTLAND WHOLESALE
FIRM HAS BIG FIRE

E. D. Keyes & Co., Loss Is Estimated
Between $10,000 and $20,000—Fire
Laid to Defective Wiring.

Rutland, April 4.—A fire in the Keyes block, a wholesale grocery establishment on Evelyn street, opposite the railroad station, caused about nine o'clock last night an amount of damage which could not be even estimated by the proprietors, members of E. D. Keyes and company. It is believed, however, that the loss will run into between $10,000 and $20,000. It is covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is not definitely known, but E. D. Keyes of the firm said he thought it was due to a defective electric wire. Members of the fire department thought likewise.

The fire started in the second floor storeroom and in the corner from which it started were stored tea, cereals and merchandise of a like nature. The flames burned through the floor above, and entered the big room on the third floor, stored with coffee, canned goods, brooms and similar merchandise. It was confined mostly to the corner of the two rooms.

Much the greater proportion of the damage was due to water, the extremely perishable nature of the merchandise carried by Keyes and company making the fire unusually costly. On the first floor were stored sugar in bags and flour, both particularly susceptible to damage by water. The water soaked not only the first floor from the rooms above, but in the cellar, in which were pork and other things not so likely to lose their value when touched by water.

The fire was discovered by railroad men, who sent in a still alarm, and an alarm was pulled in from the nearest box almost immediately. Both the fire companies answered with the hose teams, but the need of ladders was apparent and the hook and ladder wagon answered.

The fire was fought from windows on the second and third floor. Several streams were played on the flames. The Rutland railroad offices are on the second floor, but in the front of the building, and in what was at one time another building. New railroad offices and the front store were separated from the rear room from which the fire started by solid brick wall. The lights were cut off to prevent the recurrence of fire, and so the proprietors were unable to inventory the merchandise partially destroyed, or recall the merchandise totally destroyed.

George Duclaw of Mendon, who is serving a term for burglary, and has been at the house of correction for three years, has the disease. This was discovered yesterday when Dr. E. H. Gebhard, the house physician, and Dr. C. S. Caverly, state health officer, examined the prisoner, who was supposed to be suffering from pneumonia. There are six men in the hospital besides Duclaw.

Time has laid a heavy hand on "Aunt Sally," and because of her feebleness, neighbors and old acquaintances who called during the day stayed but a moment to express their felicitations and to receive a kindly acknowledgment from the venerable lady. For four years now Mrs. Wilson has declined slowly. Physically she is still remarkably strong and at times her former mental vigor asserts itself. In those intervals she recognizes

SOUTH BARRE GIRL MARRIED.

Miss Grace Barney the Bride of Harry
W. Witters of St. Johnsbury.

News is received here of the wedding of Miss Grace Barney, daughter of Louis Barney of South Barre, to Harry W. Witters, a prominent young St. Johnsbury attorney, which was celebrated in St. Johnsbury last Saturday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Paul Dwight Moody at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Nay. Both the bride and groom were unattended. Mrs. Witters was attired in white messaline with lace over-dress. After the wedding luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Witters left for a week's stay in Boston. At present they are the guests of Mr. Witters' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Witters, in St. Albans.

The bride is well known in Barre. She has been a teacher in the Summer street school in St. Johnsbury for several years and will continue her work there during the spring term. Mr. Witters has been a frequent visitor in this city. He attended the St. Albans high school and since his graduation from the law department of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, he has been in the office of H. B. Howe at St. Johnsbury, first as an assistant and more recently as a member of the law firm of Howe, Witters & Harvey.

TO CONSIDER CITY CHARTER.

Mayor Burke Proposed to Invite Mayors of Other Cities to Conference.

Burlington, April 4.—Mayor Burke of Burlington says he proposes to invite the mayors of Rutland, Barre, Montpelier and St. Albans to come to Burlington for a conference on the subject of a commission form of government.

Mayor Burke's idea is to have the cities of Vermont get together on a charter that will be the same for all the cities, and the discussion will be along that line at the conference here. The representative of the different cities will probably have suggestions to offer which will be of value in the construction of uniform charters. As it will be necessary to change, or amend, or construct anew the charters so that the new form of government may exist, it will also be necessary to go before the legislature for a bill. Mayor Burke thinks not too highly of the present Burlington charter and believes it should be relegated to the scrap heap.

FOR A BETTER HUMAN SPECIES.

Vermont's Problem Is to Strengthen Itself to Counteract the Weaklings.

Before a large gathering of men in the Vincitia club last evening, James Franklin Messenger of Burlington, professor of education and director of the summer school at the University of Vermont, gave an interesting and informal talk on "The Conservation of Our Social Forces." The occasion was the last of a series of smokers given by the club during the winter months, and to the speaker's discussion of that large and timely subject the audience gave its closest attention. Professor Messenger was introduced by President M. S. Rommels and at the conclusion of his remarks he was accorded a rising vote of thanks. One of the pleasurable features of the evening came at the end of the talk, when new maple sugar on snow, doughnuts, coffee and other fixings were served in the card room.

In its general aspects, Professor Messenger's address on conservation as a definite part of the social program dealt with the problem in a broad manner. In particular, however, he discussed its manifold phases in connection with their reference to conditions here in Vermont. His plan was for a business-like method of grappling with social problems as they are manifesting themselves to the present generation. Without belittling the necessity for conservation of material resources such as forests, coal and water, he voiced his opinion that extravagance in a greater degree exists in efforts for social service. Briefly he traced from its beginnings the human side of society that seeks to harbor and protect its weaklings. The instinct that one sees developing in a child as it cares for a weak sister or younger brother is the instinct that guides the race as a whole in endeavoring to preserve its own unfortunates.

There is a necessity of a dependent class, according to the speaker. The presence of the helpless has been a great humanizing factor in social evolution. To-day we are facing a constantly growing proportion of defectives. To stop its growth is a large problem. Efforts are being made along three lines to cope with this proportion, a ratio that has doubled in the last decade. The reduce the number of defectives, sterilization and segregation are resorted to for the purpose of preventing reproduction among unfortunates of a certain kind. These methods have their drawbacks and objectionable features. Again, there is the proposition that incorporates a plan to increase the number of the strong. We know it as the science of eugenics. It, too, has its impracticable phases. A third plan is the educating of the entire group for the expressed purpose of improving the species. To this plan is commended the thoughtful consideration of every citizen. Something can be done in the way of increasing the general efficiency of a community. Vermont can continue to produce as many men as she has produced in the past, more perhaps if it were to work for the greater good. But her race of men and women will not be quite as able unless we apply an economics and organized plan to reduce the defective proportion of the population. Individualism, to a certain degree, must be banished and in its stead there must exist a strong and resolute race which will apply to the social problems the same business sense and the same concentration of effort that it brings to bear on its more concrete problems.

PAT DRISCOLL SHOWS
UP IN KEENE, N. H.

Convinces Relatives That He Is in the Flesh and Confirms Their Belief That They Buried Another Man.

Keene, N. H., April 4.—Patrick Driscoll of this city, who rushed out of the woods near Bethel, into Montpelier, Vt., last Tuesday night to stop his own "funeral," this city by telephone, arrived in Keene to prove to his relatives that he is alive. He will spend a few days in this city before returning into the lumber camp, where he is working.

Relatives of Patrick Driscoll, having received word last Sunday that their brother was killed in Montpelier, went and brought the body of their supposed brother to this city and it was buried a short time before receiving the message from the man who was thought to have been killed. The body which is buried here is still unidentified and cannot be removed until word is received from the selectmen in Vermont. The relatives accepted the body as more than a dozen people had "identified" it as that of Patrick Driscoll. The body being badly mangled was difficult to identify. The Driscoll family now have the body to dispose of, and it is not known whether the Vermont authorities will accept it or not. In case it is not accepted, it will probably be exhumed and a new burial spot found. It is now in the family lot.

For Speeding Auto Last Summer Rutland Man Pays Up.

Rutland, April 4.—Pasquale Romano, an Italian chauffeur, of this city was fined $25 and costs of $8 in a county court yesterday by Judge Willard W. Miles for speeding an automobile in this city last August. The case was to have come up at the September term of court, but Romano left the city temporarily. He was originally found guilty in city court by jury after a trial lasting all day and nearly all night. He appealed the case, but yesterday decided to withdraw the appeal and plead guilty to an information filed by State's Attorney B. L. Stafford of this city. The violation of the traffic law was considered especially vicious by the prosecution because Romano ran his automobile at a rate estimated at 40 miles an hour through a street where many children were playing. No one was hurt. C. V. Poulin of Rutland was his counsel.
